For handsomely presented bread products

Unterland Flexible Packaging's wicketed bags are the optimum packaging for fully automated, rapid filling processes, e.g. for bread products. We provide everything from a single source: extrusion, printing and production, for outstanding service and flexibility.

As a one-stop-shop, we can meet customers' individual requirements, with bags produced to a wide range of specifications. 10-colour flexoprinting and impressive transparency ensure products always look their best.

Unterland has years of experience working with large-scale bakeries and machinery producers, and our wicketed bags are known for their optimum performance on automated systems and high levels of sterilization resistance.

Key Strengths

- One-stop-shop for solutions
- Maximum product shelf life
- 10-colour flexoprinting; maximum transparency

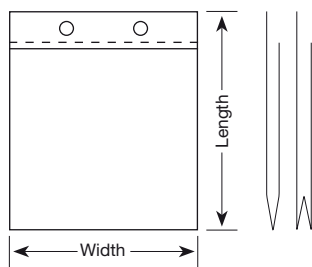

Competency and transparency

Unterland's wicketed bags competency centre in Kufstein, Austria offers attractive, affordable solutions under one roof. Our wicketed bags, available in CPP, PE or biopolymer (Sustainex®) versions, feature consistent sealing properties and impressive visual characteristics. A hygiene certified production process (EN 15593) of our products correspond to the strict requirements of the food industry.

At Unterland, high quality also means maximum transparency and print life, even in CPP frozen food applications. A wide range of services such as supply chain management and an in-house repro department complete the picture.
